

COULD YOU LOVE A... MONSTER?

By Lucy Bernard

A cheeky monster up to mischief, who leaves horrid smells, is noisy, messy and scary! Day to day life with a monster can be tough, but sometimes they are always there for you for a snuggle and a giggle, but the roles are sometimes reversed in this big scary world when the monster looks up to the little girl for advice and help. The surprise at the end of the story is that the crazy monster turns out to be her younger brother! Beautifully illustrating the annoying things all siblings do, but also their caring and funny side and no matter what happens you will always be there for them. So you can love a monster after all!

This is a funny and warm story about the relationship of a girl and her younger brother, which would be lovely to read together as a family and laugh at the similar things they do together in real life too!

Would you like a monster...

who makes really horrid smells?

Who, if you say, "Please whisper," thinks it's funny if he yells?

Sometimes little monsters can find growing up is tough...

...And they need advice from someone who has been through all this stuff.

Spread 1

Could you love a monster if he came to live with you?

One who's always causing chaos and is rude and cheeky too?

Spread 2

Would you like a monster who makes really horrid smells?

Who, if you say, "Please whisper," thinks it's funny if he yells?

Spread 3

Could you live with a small monster who just doesn't seem to care,

If he takes your things to play with and then leaves them everywhere?

Spread 4

Would you sit down with a monster who is greedy as can be?

One who gobbles all his food and then burps really NOIS-ILY?

Spread 5

Could you put up with a monster giving you a daily scare?

One who creeps up then shouts "BOO!" to make you jump up in the air?

Spread 6

But every now and then those little monsters can be fun,

Like on snowy days and windy days and days out in the sun.

Spread 7

It's also kind of funny when they see a great big puddle,

And they're sort of cute and snuggly when they're looking for a cuddle.

Spread 8

If monsters try they can be quiet and not make any sound,

Then they'll often stare and marvel at the wondrous world around.

Spread 11

Have you guessed by now a little monster lives with me?

But he doesn't really look like this, just read on and you'll see!

Spread 12

He's cheeky, loud and silly but I'd swap him for no other,

As this crazy little monster is in fact my little brother!
